A Piece of Parchment.

When unwritten on, is not more colorless than the cadaverous countenances of those unfortunate persons whom we are accustomed to call "confirmed invalids." What a misnomer! Implying, too, despair, a giving up for lost! As long as the vivifying power of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be felt, and that is possible as long as there is no absolute collapse of the faculties, fresh vitality can be infused into wasted feeble frames; color and flesh can be brought back to wasted, pallid cheeks with this grand sheet anchor of the debilitated and the sickly. It is a tonic of the greatest potency and utmost purity, and a remedy for and preventive of dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, rheumatism, nervous and kidney complaints. Appetite and sleep are greatly aided by it; it counteracts the effects of undue fatigue, or excitement, and nullifies the often perilous consequences of exposure in inclement weather or damp clothing.

He says that he hopes yet to reach the 2,000,000 mark before he retires from active service. He is an old citizen of East St. Louis.
